Further, "the county auditor may, without council approval, retain special counsel to represent the county auditor in implementing these powers".

The retention of special counsel will assist the county auditor in reviewing matters related to three lots or less subdivision deferral agreements or other matters and, if appropriate, assist in carrying out audits of such matters.

Box 6. Explain in detail, why it is not practicable or not advantageous for the department to procure by competitive means:

This exemption is requested for the Office of the County Auditor (“OCA”) as it relates to State procurement regulations which require the county auditor (as head of the purchasing agency) to designate a review/selection committee consisting of a minimum of three persons with sufficient education, training, and licenses or credentials [emphasis added] in the area of professional services required (i.e., legal services).

The OCA consists of four employees: the County Auditor, two Senior Analysts, and an Administrative Officer. And, while OCA employees are sufficiently trained and hold various professional licenses and degrees which are directly related to the field of accounting, finance, and auditing, no OCA employee is a licensed attorney. As such, it is not practicable for the OCA to comply with HRS §103D-304 which requires the head of the purchasing agency to designate a committee of three persons licensed or credentialed in the field of legal services. The OCA simply does not have any attorneys on its staff.

The County Charter authorizes the county auditor to retain special counsel without the approval of the County Council. This protective language reduces the probability of conflicts of interests and allows the OCA to be more clearly independent in fact and appearance. Further, requiring the OCA to utilize attorneys of the executive branch (i.e., Corporation Counsel) or County Council (i.e., Office of Council Services) to serve on the OCA’s review/selection committee would usurp the county auditor’s authority to retain special counsel, encroach on the protective language in the County Charter, and reduce the OCA’s independence.

An exemption is needed because meeting the above requirement imposed by State procurement regulations is not practicable given the OCA’s limited staff and is in conflict with the Charter authority mandated to the county auditor.
